

Catherine leads the business development activities for Aon's Cyber Solutions including corporate strategy consulting and market trends monitoring. Representing a wide spectrum of technical, legal and insurance providers in cyber risk management services, she is a frequent keynote speaker and cyber-risk panelist at high-profile conferences across the country. A fervent believer in the value of education, Catherine facilitates cyber resilience discussions with public/private-sector clients across all industry segments to not only help optimize investment decisions in their cyber security posture but design more fit-for-purpose risk financing and transfer arrangements.